Water Problems

There are a number of irrigation companies in the city. These irrigation companies are separate companies and not affiliated with the city and have done a good job for over 150 years. Water serving our residents and farmers comes from Pine View through a system of different water courses before it arrives here. During the recent winter there was a severe wind storm that toppled many trees. It is our understanding from our water officials that trees fell and clogged Mill Creek. This is a vital irrigation system to our community. The tree fall occurred at various places between Ogden Canyon and the Ogden Nature Center. This resulted in water problems for residents in our subdivisions and for others who flood irrigate. The city was not able to get adequate flow to irrigate Slaterville Park until the end of May and the park has severely dried. Residents and farmers have been frustrated by the lack of pressure and flow as well. The city appreciates the work of North Slaterville Irrigation Company in working with Pine View and other water users and companies in the county to repair Mill Creek. The city also appreciates the patience of residents on the pressurized system. Managing water is not easy, it takes a lot of work to bring water to our valley. Thanks for your understanding.

Budget Public Hearings

The City Council will hold a series of public hearings on Thursday, June 21, 2012, at 6:30 PM, at the municipal complex located at 1570 West 400 North, MSC, Utah, as follows: 1) resolution amending city budget for FY 2011-12 in accordance with UCA 10-6-127; 2) resolution adopting final city budget for FY 2012-13 in accordance with UCA 10-6-113; and 3) resolution adopting the final budget for FY 2012-13 for the Pioneer Special Service District. All interested persons in attendance shall be given an opportunity to be heard, for or against, the estimates of revenue and expenditures or any item thereof in the tentative or amended budget of any fund. Copies of the tentative or amended budgets are available at the City Office, 801-627-1919, during regular business hours. Individuals requiring special accommodation please contact Becky Burt at 801-627-1919 three (3) days prior to the hearing.
